

Call for Papers

Trends

in esse: English Studies in Albania

Deadline for submitting articles: 15 October 2011

ASSE (Albanian Society for the Study of English) would like to announce this call for papers for contributions for its second issue of in esse: English Studies in Albania, a scholarly journal devoted to the promotion of original work in linguistics, literary and translation studies and language teaching by scholars working in Albania and abroad.

The second issue, following the first one entitled English(es), marks an important progress in the promotion of English studies in Albania. This issue not only reaffirms our aim of becoming one of the most credible sources for the development of these studies in Albania and not only, but also challenges scholars by calling their attention to the latest tendencies, perspectives and developments in the study of literature, language, and culture of English-speaking countries.

Thus, the title of this issue is Trends and is intended to bring together new and intriguing tendencies, fashions, perspectives and responses in any of the following:

- British and Commonwealth Literature
- American Literature
- Afro-American Literature
- Literary Theory and Criticism
- Linguistics
- Pragmatics
- Semantics
- Semiotics
- English for Specific Purposes
- English language Teaching
- Translation Studies.

Deadline for submissions: 15 October 2011

Articles should not exceed 6000 words. Submissions should be sent as an MS e-mail attachment to Armela Panajoti (armelap@assenglish.org) or Marsela Turku (mturku@assenglish.org).

Please include a 250-word abstract and 4-5 keywords. Submissions should conform to the 16th edition of The Chicago Manual of Style. in esse uses a “References” format together with author-date-page citations in the body of the article. Spelling should conform to The Oxford English Dictionary except for cited material.